Consilient Becomes LawsOnThinking

VOLUME 1, ISSUE 1

JANUARY 2015

HIGHLIGHTS OF OUR YEAR

- Rafters winning young business men of the year.
- Rebranding as LawsOnThinking.
- Our growing partnership with Altamira and Easistreet.
- Facilitation reloaded in Copenhagen with IAF.
- Work with Neil and Ed UKTI.
- Our review work – Domestic Homicide Reviews for Safeguarding Children Boards.
- Our Safeguarding work with Schools now in it's 25th year.
- Our strategic work with Boards.

A Happy New Year to all our customers, course participants, associates and other supporters.

Consilient is nine years old this month and we're celebrating our anniversary in two ways:

“Firstly with our busiest ever start to a year but more importantly with the announcement of our rebrand to LawsOnThinking.”

New Website:

Please take a look at the new website lawsonthinking.com and tell us what you think. There you will find information on our four key offers along with some footage of me which I think you will find very entertaining, informative and helpful.

This year we are looking forward to building on the successes and highlights of last year:

- Working with more organisations to help them redesign and re-imagine themselves to deal successfully and sustainably with the emergent environments they find themselves in.
- Supporting those organisations that find themselves in need of rapid transitions with a range of high energy focused support programmes including Senior Executive coaching and Leadership and Management capability.

- Continue to deliver the bespoke modular skills programmes which build capability and capacity in Leaders, Managers and the wider workforce.
- Enhance our ability to assist those in crisis to recover their systems and maintain the resilience of their staff and services.
- Strengthen and focus on supporting successful new businesses to expand as part of the Growth
